

WeRateDogs is a famous twitter handle which rates dog in an unusual and humorous manner(They even rated Snoop Dogg, 420/10). It became famous after a meme went viral.

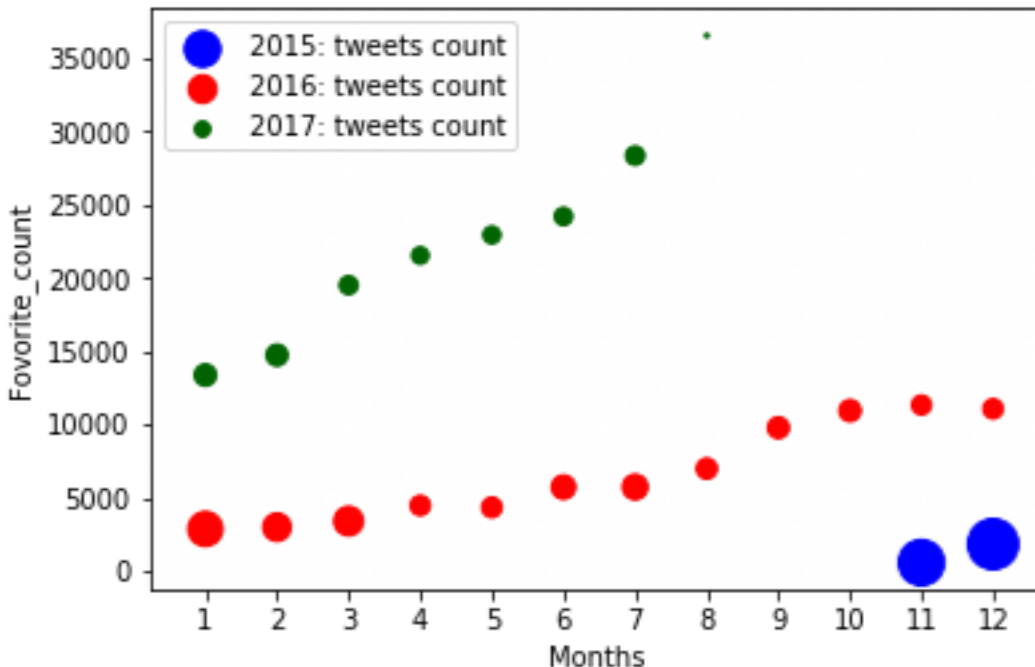

And they appreciate creativity, creatively, like rating 666 to dog dressed as devil or rating 1776 on 4th July.

Over the time, amount of tweets per month decreased and popularity(retweets and favorites) increased. In December, 2015 they were tweeting around 350 times/month and were getting around 1800 favorites and 700 retweets month now they tweet around 45 times/month and get around 25000 favorites and 4400 retweets monthly .

Currently it has more than 4.3 million followers. A tweet on June 18,2016 having a video of doggo swimming and standing in a pool (https:// twitter.com/dog_rates/status/744234799360020481) got them their personal best of retweets(76921) and puppo in women-march in Toronto(https://twitter.com/dog_rates/status/822872901745569793) got them their max favorite count.

This handle seems to be very active on Monday and least active on Saturday but Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday seems to be their lucky days in terms of retweets and favorite counts.

They have posted golden retriever breed maximum time(137)* followed by Labrador_retriever(94)* and Pembroke(88)* .

* Data based on predictions

With time median rating of dogs has increased, initially around 10 became around 13 in two years. This may be because this account created an enthusiasm in audience to be more innovative with their dogs or may be because user has become more generous over time or maybe he/she is doing an initial screening before posting.
